

Plot

Chapter 1

Lee, Raj and Sam are best friends. They live in the same neighbourhood. One Saturday, Raj tells Sam that the fair has come to town and his father has agreed to take them there. Raj and Sam go to Lee's house to relay the good news. All of them are very excited. Sam's father allows her to go to the fair. However, Lee's mother does not have enough money. Thus, Lee is unable to go to the fair. Sam suggests for them to do some odd jobs to earn some money for Lee to go to the fair.

Chapter 2

The three friends start to look for jobs. Sam's father allows them to wash his car. As they start washing the car, the three of them playfully splash water on each other. They all end up getting wet, but the car is not washed. Sam's father is upset. Therefore, he does not pay them anything. Next, they go to Raj's house to see his mum. There, they find her having tea with Mrs Green, who lives across the street. Unfortunately, Raj's mum has no job for them. However, Mrs Green asks them to take her little brown dog, Micky, for a walk. The three of them take Micky to the park but Micky runs after a little girl's ball and gets hold of it. The dog bites the ball. Lee returns the ball to the girl and they bring Micky back to Mrs Green. Mrs Green gives Lee one pound. Then, the girl comes crying with her mum. She shows the flattened ball to Lee, so Lee gives the money to her to buy a new ball. Lee still has no money to go to the fair.

Chapter 3

The three children see a woman carrying a heavy shopping bag. Her purse falls out from her bag, but she is not aware of it. Lee picks it up and sees that it is full of money. For a moment, the children want to keep the purse, but they decide against it. Lee searches for the woman and returns the purse to her. She is grateful and gives Lee a reward of five pounds. The children are happy that they can now go to the fair together.
